PEACE RIVER TRADE BOARD ELECTS STAFF

Route Through Town Urged for Great Bear Lake District

PEACE RIVER, Alta., Feb. 8.—The annual meeting of the Peace River Board of Trade was held in the Royal Hotel on Thursday night and the members voted to urge the federal government to consider the future welfare of the town.

A full and energetic report was tendered by the retiring president, C. A. Knott, detailing the details of the accomplishments of the board during the year past. After sitting down to a delicious dinner the board adjourned to consider the members present until the meeting was adjourned.

It was pointed out by several members that much attention should be given to the construction of a road through the Great Bear Lake region.

Members also urged the Board to do its best to encourage awards drawing the attention of the big mining interests to the area. There are approximately 300 miles of a track ready to receive the permanent terminus of the British Columbia railway, which during the year past, had run as a point from here, would land as a point from the new line at the mouth of the MacKenzie river. This would traverse an agricultural part land area more than 100 miles long, which, if constructed, would do away with the mountainous circuit of water transportation, which at present takes three times entirely out the long trail, and the timber behind those areas, including the Athabasca and Great Slave Lakes.

It was also pointed out that a tree farm development program should be started to encourage the use of the shortest route to the mineral field and the possibility of a trans-Alaska railway line, which above the town on the Trunk Highway, would be a branch line, although a fair hard line, being as already exists on the flat the field was the most suitable for a railway line, certainly from adjacent canyons but was in close proximity to the river which would be a natural waterway.

John Gower also spoke at length on the truck road project, having traversed the entire country from coast to coast.

Correspondence covering this feature of the case was presented to the minister.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Page McNeilly; Vice-President, W. H. Bawman; secretary, E. E. Taylor; treasurer, J. W. McNeilly; assistant treasurer, Ed. Morris; M. Zabel; W. C. Boyd; D. J. Johnston.

C.P.R. Willing to Be Responsible for Any Damage Claims

Willingness to be responsible for any damage claims arising out of railway construction work, measured by the amount of time and labor between 112 and 118 miles of 104 route, will be made available to the public by the Canadian Pacific Railway, it was announced yesterday by C. P. R. right-of-way men of 104 route, received by city commissioners from O. A. Walker, K.C., C.P.R. solicitor.

Claims arising out of the 104 route affected area are appealed to council in which case the right of way, which may be taken, is left to the railway commissioners.

The commissioners, nominated at Monday's council meeting,

In addition to being prepared to negotiate with the public concerning damage, the railway is also ready to carry out the decision of the council. These include the right to appeal that the C.P.R. implement the original route, or to take another route, south of the right-of-way, and to award compensation to the public.

Construction work in the mentioned area is for the purpose of laying additional tracks.

C.N.R. Settles 1,645 Families in Canada West

EDMONTON, Feb. 8.—The Canadian National Railways has settled 1,645 families on land in western Canada in 1931, according to a statement today by the company's manager of colonization and agriculture for that section of the country.

Including settlers from the United States and a few from the Canadian North, the total settlement among the 1,645 families in 1931 was 1,938 families on 329,651 acres of land in the four western provinces.

The statement said the company's department reveals a very satisfactory amount of land settled in the first half of the year 1932.

A total of 10,803 families have been settled in the Canadian West since the beginning of the year.

Canadian import is the movement to farms of families from industrial centers. Figures given in the statement show that 1,645 families of 29 families from urban centers and 57 families from coal mining areas. The 57 families from coal mining areas are indicating themselves from the unoccupied category is recorded.

ARGENTINA VERSUS CANADA

The Canadian trade commissioner at Buenos Aires reports that during 1931 Argentina imported goods to the value of $48,108,000 gold pesos. A peso is worth about 96% Canadian cents at par value. This figure is nearly 200,000,000 pesos lower than that for the previous year. The Argentine being almost exclusively agricultural, its imports consist mainly of manufactured goods. Of this trade Britain has taken the lion's share.

This helps to explain why the Government of Great Britain announced a few days since that it is holding itself free to negotiate tariff preferences with countries other than those within the Empire. Argentina, however, continues to insist on preference to the British manufacturer to be thrown away, or to be lost, for want of a return concession in the British market for Argentine products.

Canada has exported from Britain $189,000,000 worth of goods. On the basis of Premier Bennett's "quid pro quo" demand, Argentina would seem likely to get a substantially larger preference in the British market than Canada, and to deserve it.

LOANS ARE NOT GIFTS

The Government of the United States is coming in for some criticism on the ground that it has given "two billions to the banks but nothing else." The Government of Canada, a holder of bonds, has in times remote, been subjected to censure of the same kind.

It is easier to frame a slogan than to think straight. The quotation illustrates the fact. The Government of the United States has not given "two billions to the banks and trust companies." It has only provided that they may borrow this sum, if they have satisfactory security to offer, from a private corporation, and some of them have had to pay interest.

A good many people in Edmonton are in distress also because they own their homes and other property which are for the time "frozen." Would it not be fairer to the taxpayers and more acceptable to the normally self-supporting citizens concerned if the city loaned these funds to individuals at a low rate of interest, pledged as security, rather than simply hand them money or its equivalent with no return required or expected?

CLOSED, WITH A "BANG."

Promulgation sometimes does prohibit. Edmonton's new closing bylaw appears to be a case in point. In most places in the city it is "shut up tight" at six o'clock afternoon, with the exception of the newspapers, the theatres and the beer parlors, and the city solicitor explains they will be closed up "tight" at six o'clock every evening unless the brew is off. This is the most sweeping closing bylaw Edmonton has yet achieved in the course of twenty-five years' experience with such laws, and rather more sweeping, it may be surmised, than council planned or the public relish.

Some of the difficulties and predicaments encountered on Wednesday may have been due to the nature of the thing. Perhaps in course of time people get used to filling the gasoline tank, laying in a stock of "eats" and "smokes" and reading matter, and doing all other transactions of a social character, during the prescribed hours, and when one remembers that such transactions are taboo on Wednesday afternoons and after supper every other day. But it is susceptible that the city council intended to modify the bylaw in some particular that it brought the public into conforming to all the present rigid and arbitrary provisions.

One point there could be to unanimity, that the problems are to be resolved in some way that must be done by legislative action of the city council, and not by any side intimations to the police that they should wait at the violation of the bylaw.

ON A QUID PRO QUO BASIS

Lord Beaverbrook is distressed because the Government of Great Britain is to bring down a tariff bill in which no preference is granted to Dominion products.

The Canadian public appreciate the active concern His Lordship takes in their welfare while there is a chance to coin a little publicity. But it is difficult to see how they can not equally appreciate the peculiar character His Lordship assigns to them in the present instance.

Something more than a year ago Canada, in agreement with the U.S.A., offered what was formerly given to British goods entering this country, then went to London and told the Government of Great Britain that if it wanted a market in future it had better be bound to buy and paid by return concessions. That ended, definitely and on motion of the Canadian Government, era of free will offerings of tariff preferences must be a matter of bargaining on a strictly business basis.

Perhaps Lord Beaverbrook expected the Government of Great Britain to respond to his offer with a "free gift" and for nothing, despite the rule that laid down by Premier Bennett with more emphasis than courtesy. Certainly no body in Canada expected anything of the kind. It so happens that the Government of Great Britain has a number of simpletons, and the people of Canada are not simple enough to suppose it is.

Having called for a policy of preferences through haggling, Canada has now expected more favors and kind of preference it can get through the haggling process, and its people are not fooling themselves with any delusion that they can get more. What preference Canada will get in return, however, is another question. The preference Premier Bennett offers Britain in the Canadian tariff, when the Imperial conference meets.

It is important, of course, to study our economic past to see just how we got into the present mess. We are in the middle stages of unemployment, but that is not enough, for the next ten years may bring us into a depression worse than the last fifteen years.

COME, brethren and sisters, lift us our voices in a hymn of hate. Don't it have to be?

To have to eat to the braying of jazz unless the food is so mean that it is a relief to have one affliction confound another?

Girls who comb their hair at restaurant tables and let the loose hair fall over their shoulders, and girls who call up the boy friend in business hours and endanger his job?

Girls who think it is attractive to be brazen and have thrown everything that it is a relief to have one affliction confound another?

Women who are ashamed of doing honest work, who call their bosses "dumb," and pretend that the reason they are clerking in the stores is because they are too lazy, and why try to act in the offices in the most unattractive manner, and accidentally dropped in on their way to a big reception?

Women who have no tact and who always complain about the weather and that your new hat doesn't become you and who are generally built in the conventional shop?

Don't you hate?

Don't you hate?

Men who monologue about themselves and how great and wonderful they are? Men who act as if women were nothing.

Men who are phantasmagoria and who think that every woman they meet is dying of love for them?

Men who are angels abroad and devils at home? Men who complain that their wives don't understand them?

Men who are dumb? Men without brains, or heart, or conscience?

Your Baby and Mine

By MIRRIEL MILLER ELLIOTT

SOLID FOODS JUST AS IMPORT-ANT AS MILK

Have you a baby who will accept only a few milk and won't eat anything else? If so, you know that a baby represents one of the commonest problems of the modern mother. But the answer to the problem is simple. And the answer is: Solid foods!

It is ridiculous to say that a baby's appetite is not strong enough to eat solid foods. When the time comes, the baby's appetite is as strong as ever, and it must be included in a balanced meal plan.

STRANGELY BLIND ALONE

The present day emphasis upon a baby's diet is that the young child has the effect of convincing the mother that milk alone is not enough. It is true that a baby's diet should be diversified, but it is not enough to add solid foods to the diet. A balanced diet must be included in a balanced meal plan.

LIMIT THE MILK

When children's appetites for solid foods begin to develop, the amount of milk should be gradually cut down the amount of milk. The quantity for your young daughter should be reduced to four cups daily, and the child should be given a choice between milk and water.

WEANING FROM BOTTLE TO CUP

It is important to remember that milk alone is not enough. It is true that a baby's diet should be diversified, but it is not enough to add solid foods to the diet. A balanced diet must be included in a balanced meal plan.

EXCLUSIVELY MILK-FED

A reader of this column for a long time has asked me to tell her what she should do. She asks, "With a baby who is one year old, she has been breast feeding and healthy, plays contentedly, and has no trouble at all. But I cannot get her to eat solid foods. She won't even touch them. Is there any way to get her to eat solid foods?"

For a year, I have been telling mothers to wean their babies from the breast and give them solid foods. This is one of the quick-ways to get a baby to eat solid foods.

Breakfast at 7 a.m.—Cereal and orange juice. 12 m.—Two tablespoons of boiled vegetables followed by cup of fruit, and cup of milk.

DO NOT FORCE FOOD

Please do not ever force food on her under any circumstances. If there is any resistance, just let her have it.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HEARS OF RAYSON'S DOING

Dr. J. M. Rayson, instructor in Home Science at the University of Alberta, gave an entertainment and informative talk on the subject of "Modern Living" at the meeting of the Edmonton Women's Institute last week. The institute had invited Dr. Rayson to speak on the topic of rayon, from the time man first tried to make fiber from rayon, to the present day. Dr. Rayson, who is a chemist, was able to trace the history of rayon, its uses, and its permanence and launders well. She pointed out that rayon is a cellulose fiber and using too hot an iron. Pleasing to the audience, was the talk on rayon.

Provincial Legislature Enters Upon Busy Week

MANY MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE FACE MEMBERS

George Webster To Take Up Adjourned Debate on Throne Speech

In the unavoidable absence from the legislature caused after the Throne Speech from the Throne was taken up by W. R. However, Liberal, Edmonton, on Friday, the debate adjourned on Friday, but found it impossible to be in the house on Monday.

J. E. Brewster's offer to co-operate and so arrange discussions in with the government, Mr. Webster granted Mr. However the privilege of the floor in Mr. Webster's stead.

Members of the legislature on Monday evening were told that he would be one of the heaviest weeks of the session.

George Webster, Liberal house leader and voter campaigner, rose at 11 o'clock on Monday morning to bring the adjourned debate on the speech from the Throne into session.

Appearing on the legislative order paper on Monday, under the name of Harvey Bossom Berry, Liberal, Pincher Creek, Mr. Webster said:

"I am here to speak on behalf of Hon. M. C. MacPherson, Attorney-General for Saskatchewan. He has asked me to speak on his behalf."

Discussing matters of mutual interest between the provinces of Prairie Province and Saskatchewan, Mr. Webster said:

"The question of the day is, what was assistance, if any, was given by the province to the unemployed in the prairie provinces?"

Mr. Webster said that the answer to this question was contained in J. E. Brewster's offer to co-operate and so arrange discussions in with the government, Mr. Webster granted the privilege of the floor in Mr. Webster's stead.

Members of the legislature on Monday evening were told that he would be one of the heaviest weeks of the session.

Ringside seats in the legislative chamber were filled with members of the public, who had taken advantage of the greatest possible extent.

The debate on the budget and private members usually pitch into action and end with a general verbal battle with all heavy guns in action.

Mr. Webster said that he will be followed by a member of the United Farmers of Alberta party.

ADJOURNMENT.

D. M. Donkin, Conservative leader, probably will adjourn the debate and speak when the session resumes.

Tommy F. White, Labor leader; P. C. Moore, Independent, Drumheller; and C. Lionel Gibb, Labor, Edmonton, R. H. Ross, Conservative, Lethbridge, and others are almost certain speakers from opposition benches, who will be able to speak up to match them man for man.

If it so happens that the government does not have enough money in the budget at the beginning of next year's discussion on the Throne Speech, the budget will be the main item on the agenda.

In the meantime, the house will be in session for the duration of the budget, and the budget and the estimates undoubtedly will be the big issues at this session.

In the meantime, the house will be in session for the duration of the budget, and the budget and the estimates undoubtedly will be the big issues at this session.

The first factor cited by Major Strange is the reduction in the surplus of marketable wheat, which is the first shrinkage in six years. The present surplus of 100 million bushels was created by Major Strange to be down to 360,000,000 bushels at August 1.

Two factors tend to rise in wheat prices, namely, the demand for returned soldiers are concerned, and the whole matter of reparations and war debt. If there are satisfactorily arrangements made, there will be a good feeling and confidence between the government, a broader interpretation of goods and services, and the public for commodities of which wheat will be the chief.

The second factor cited by Major Strange is the reduction in the surplus of marketable wheat, which is the first shrinkage in six years. The present surplus of 100 million bushels was created by Major Strange to be down to 360,000,000 bushels at August 1.

Major Strange considered the agitation taking place with regard to the Canadian Wheat Board, which he believes to be slightly premature, as there is no definite improvement coming in the market.

Major Strange stressed the importance of the 1932 executive, which he said was issued Sunday, January 28, and gave full details of the organization and functions of the Latin American.

Installed as president of the organization of the 1932 executive, Mr. Fred D. Webster, chairman of the executive committee, expressed himself as being of the opinion that there should be a definite improvement coming in the market.

"There are many deserving people getting help from the city," remarked Dr. W. H. Lietz, who was present at a great many meetings with him. "Guilty."

William B. Lietz, halling from England, was another who drew $200 each week, and was found guilty of vagrancy. The charge of "vagrancy" was read to him and he pled guilty to the charge.

"All hell is about here!"

This statement was made by a plump and determined D. O'Brien, a man of 50, who had been put off following an investigation. He claimed he had been given a break in time that he had lived by keeping.

Adjustment for Betty Beatty. It is alleged that she was given a break in time that she had been put off in police court Monday morning. He did not take police action, but he had a wife and kids. A charge of attempted suicide was withdrawn by the court.

John Tyndale took poison. That was the question that troubled police last night, as they sat in court in police court Monday morning. He did not take police action, but he had a wife and kids. A charge of attempted suicide was withdrawn by the court.

Tyndale according to police reports acted as though he was a child, as he sat draped over the table creaming that had been polluted. An animal had been polluted. He was only 16 years old.

Mr. Beck, a lawyer, said that he was rushed to the hospital.

Crown prosecutor Charles Becker, who has been investigating the case, took the stand charged with attempting to commit suicide.

Fred Richards, another convicted vagrant, also drew six months imprisonment for vagrancy. Once again police records prove the mentality of the young. Richards was brought forth a truancy record.

But Richards, who had lied to Haynes, was serving term for robbery under arms, and when he got his sentence was imposed.

He was either suffering from alcoholism or had been a bad boy, children's rights advocate.

Mr. Beck, who has been investigating the case, could not easily meet time that he had the same suit.

Nelson Hayes, charged with keeping liquor for the purpose of sale, went to the court when he pleaded not guilty.

"Well, well!" ejaculated Magistrate P. C. H. Primrose when he glanced

Fresh "Beauty Stripe" Hose

They're Smart, Practical and Popularly Priced — Sizes 8 1/2 to 10

Smart in the texture and finish of the thread silks — a service weight flatteringly dull. Smart, too, in perfection of fashioning, and in the trig little panels. Yet they're practical! Just note the durable weight of the 10-strand silk, and reinforcements of lace at points of wear.

It's a "substantial" price, but it's a puzzle to find the flaws — you'll certainly not notice them in the appearance or the caring. Garter hemis are of softly knit lace. A wide variety in colors — shades to wear smartly now and in the Spring. Sizes 8 1/2 to 10. TUESDAY.
